Exact Status of Democratic Peace Negotiations.

REPUBLICAN REGISTRATION

Work of the Bureau Is Surpassing All Expectation—Death of C R Ickis—Children Injured In Runaway

Denver Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette
Denver Aug 7—The situation in the Arapahoe political situation is briefly as follows Day before yesterday the peace committee including Judge Adair Wilson as fifth member made a proposition that the call for the county convention should be issued by Mr Maloney and that the peace committee should appoint the judges of election and prepare the temporary poll call This proposition was acceptable to the Thomas people—but was rejected by the Maloney ites

Yesterday a second proposal was made by Judge Wilson to the effect that Mr Maloney be added to the peace committee making its total membership six and requiring four votes to constitute a majority To this the Thomas people refused their consent and there the matter stands

The Republican registration bureau which was opened June 15 is surpassing all expectations as far as numbers being registered is concerned

Yesterday there were 77 who came in and were registered The claim by the Democrats that none but Capitol Hill people would register at the McKinley headquarters is not correct A review of the names that have been entered show that a large majority are from among the working class of the city

Precincts that have formerly given from 45 to 75 Democratic majorities will if present in force overturn six from 10 to 15 Republican majorities

Those becoming interested especially those who have formerly never taken an active part in politics Republicans that the Republicans will carry Arapahoe county by a good 1 000 majority and certainly the names on his books bear him out in the prediction

MARY M'KINNIE SHIPMENTS

Eighty Tons of Ore Daily--Scotch Syndicate Has Purchased the St. Patrick Lode at Victor--Strike on Junior E.

Special to the Gazette
Cripple Creek Aug 7—The Mary McKinnie company is now shipping 80 tons of ore daily Of this one half is of smelting grade and will average less than $70 a ton The remainder is shipped to the mills and is good for about $30 per ton The ore shoot now being worked in the 500 foot level is the largest continuous shoot known in the camp It has been opened up for a distance of 200 feet In its entire distance there is not a foot that is not pay Of course in the distance there are places in the two parallel veins where the ore pinches but the bulges more than average up the pay streak The two veins are not more than 15 feet apart From the fifth level about 700 gallons of water are being raised each minute The pumps have a much greater capacity but at this rate the water is showing a decrease

The machinery on the new shaft house on the Bud Boy and Triangle of the Widewater company was started up today Indications here are that the management will catch the Pointer vein

The St Patrick lode at Victor owned by the Gold Belt Mines Investment company was sold and transferred today to a Scotch syndicate The consideration is not named in the deed Revenue stamps however call for the payment of $40 000 The directors of the Scotch company as far the first year are Henry Coats of Perth Scotland thread manufacturer Sir Robert Moncrieffe of Moncrieffe Bridge of Perth F Norie Miller of Perth D J Wilson of the Bank of Scotland C F Rickey of Colorado Springs and W Weston the well known mining engineer The last named the promoter of the deal is managing director The capitalization of the Scotch corporation is £80 000 It is a private flotation and is said to have ample money back of it Active development will be commenced as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made The St Patrick lode lies due south of the Gold Coin and is believed to hold the extension of the Gold Coin vein

It was reported today that the W R Boland lease on the Junior E of the Constantine company has made a strike of more than ordinary importance It has been impossible however to confirm the strike with any certainty as it is known that miners in the employ of the lessees have placed comparatively large orders for the share The fraction lies near to the Jack Pot and it is claimed that the continuation of that rich lead has been encountered

New York Stocks.

New York Aug —The recent disposition to refrain from operating in stocks and to await a clearer development of the prospect was reinforced today by the extreme heat which reached a level in inducing prostrations on the floor of the exchange With the exception of occasional execution of orders in a few stocks where special causes were at work the list was almost wholly neglected During the early part of the day some unsettled declines were established but when the room traders came to close up their contracts the losses were in a large part wiped out

Some of the early selling was based on the [illegible] ment Engagements amounted to only about $7 500 000 and upwards Reports from London were that the Bank of England was now using special facilities to attract gold from New York Otherwise it is not probable that gold would make gains out at today s figure for sterling exchange [illegible] are supposed to have been to cover the required deposit of 15 per cent against [illegible] per cent [illegible] war loans American subscriptions are [illegible] reported to have extended $40 000 000 or the entire amount of the bonds offered The allotment by the British exchequer of £10 000 000 is [illegible] for the United States it is presumed that the bear was so badly frightened that he is probably in British Columbia by this time.

The Contest Cottage Has Been Completed

The Gazette contest cottage at Dixon Park Place has been completed and is ready for the lucky couple who shall come into its ownership three weeks hence, except for the furnishings which are to be put in before the expiration of the contest.

The plumbing has been completed and water was turned on yesterday for the first time. The tap in the yard was opened and the pressure sent the stream into the air for at least 60 feet. The range has been placed in the kitchen by Fairley, Brothers and all the connections are made.

The cottage has been visited by a number of the contestants and all are delighted with it.

WILL PLAY FORTY YEAR OLD BASE BALL

The First Congregational Sunday school picnic at Cascade Canon next Tuesday will be one of the events of the season, affording an opportunity to all who may desire to embrace it to spend a day at one of the most attractive resorts in the community and at the same time enjoy a day of entertainment. One of the attractions of the day will be a baseball game between old and "young America." "Old-America" will play the game as played 40 years ago with the old-fashioned soft ball, and "out on the third bounce," while young America will exhibit modern baseball. There will be a special excursion train. Adult tickets 50 cents; children 25 cents. The following committee of boys from the school are authorized to canvass for the sale of tickets:

Richard Gregg,
Carl Blackmer,
George McKay,
Morse Shepard,
Samuel Fairbank,

Wallace Shapcott.

There is a story of a man who was so busy looking at the stars that, as he walked, he stumbled into a well. That's the story of a typical man, too busy looking at things away off, to notice more important things near by.

One-sixth of all deaths are from consumption. But the man goes along with eyes bulging to watch cholera and yellow fever. He disdains to cure the cold or check the little cough; and consumption trips him up.

Don't neglect little ailments. Keep the system up to the point of effectual resistance against disease. This is best done by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, increases the action of the blood-making glands, cures all disorders of the organs of digestion and nutrition, except cancer of the stomach, purifies the blood, increases the vital energy and so enables the body to resist and throw off disease. Even when there is emaciation, weakness, hectic, cough, bleeding at the lungs and other alarming symptoms, "Golden Medical Discovery" can be depended on to help every time and to cure 98 times out of every hundred.

Sick people can consult Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y., by letter, without fee or charge. Every letter is read in private, and treated as a sacred confidence. All replies are sent in plain envelopes.

"Last spring I was taken with severe pains in my chest, and was so weak I could hardly walk about the house," says Mrs. G. H. Kerr, of Fort Dodge, Webster Co., Iowa. "I tried several physicians and they told me I had consumption, and of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and I thought I would try some of it. Before I had taken the first bottle I was very much better. I took five bottles of it and have not had any return of the trouble. My headache is cured by using Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

The case of the Colorado Springs Mining Exchange Building Association vs. A. G. Holland was settled and dismissed.

In Justice Wing's court yesterday Attachment suit entitled Davidson vs. Goodwin was tried and taken under advisement.

PLAIN MOUNTAIN FESTIVAL,

Ouray August 14, 15, 16, 17, 18,

On the above dates Ouray will entertain the Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias of Colorado, the Grand Lodge Rathbone Companies of the state, in a grand Pythian conclave, and upon this occasion will also give the largest, longest and grandest general celebration for a week ever attempted in the history of the town.

About $6,000 has been subscribed by the citizens for the purpose, and special excursion trains will run from all points of the state, giving very low railroad rates, the round trip from Denver being only $11.

It will be a carnival of fun, frolic and interest from start to finish, day and night without stop, such as has never before been witnessed on the Western Slope of Colorado. Ouray's reputation for entertainment and hospitality is well known over the state, and upon this occasion she will undertake to outdo any former effort.

The competitive drills by the Uniform Rank companies will be a beautiful feature, as will be also the half-dozen different parades of the Knights of Khorrassan, Princes of the Orient, civic and other societies, some of which will be at night, finely illuminated by fireworks. The various novel features arranged for are in and out of the usual order. Many of them will be startling in their nature and of much interest, and in addition there will be the usual sports and features of a large celebration.

Ample accommodations have been provided for at the usual and very low rates, and five thousand visitors can be easily taken care of. The weather is cool and delightful in the mountains at this season, and all who come are assured of a royal good time.

IN POLICE COURT

Thos. Kirby and F. D. Calahan, two employes at the Spaulding house, were arraigned in police court yesterday morning to explain serious difficulties which seemed to have arisen between them. They engaged in an exciting fist fight Monday morning at the hotel where they were employed and before they could be separated considerable blood was spilt. One struck the other so hard that his fists were crippled and he was then badly beaten by his opponent. Officer Fair soon appeared on the scene and arrested both men.

When they appeared in court yesterday mornings both bore marks of a fierce fight. Kirby was tried for disturbance, while Calahan, who seemed to have been the aggressor, answered to charges of drunkenness and disturbance. They were found guilty and fined $5 and costs and $10 and costs respectively.

John Govern pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and was fined $5 and costs. He could not pay the amount and was returned to jail.

Fred Miser appeared in court to answer to a charge of drunkenness. He pleaded guilty and was fined $2 and costs.

E. J. Douglas was found guilty of drunkenness. He was fined $3 and costs.

IN JUSTICE COURTS

In Justice Ruby's court yesterday the case of Redcliffe vs. Erickson was dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff.

BRIEF CITY ITEMS.

The local ticket office of the Colorado Southern has received a number of interesting booklets on "The Stained Glass Platform," or "How Political Platforms are Made." They will be distributed to all who will call for them.

All articles which have been offered as prizes in the first annual road race of the Colorado Springs Wheel club will be placed on exhibition today in the front window of the Colorado Midland ticket office. The race will occur next Sunday between Woodland Park and Cascade.

A special Colorado Midland train crowded with officers, teachers and scholars of the Methodist churches in the city, left yesterday morning for Cascade, where their annual picnic and outing was held during the day. When the train left this city there were 492 passengers on board and others were taken on at Colorado City and Manitou. The picnickers returned at 6:25 last evening.

The Woodmen of the World will hold their regular annual grand lodge meeting at Salt Lake city on August 15. A large number from the local lodge are making plans to attend. A special Colorado Midland train will make the trip from Denver to Salt Lake for the accommodation of the Woodmen. The train will leave Denver at 12:01 on Monday morning. A rate of $18 for the round trip has been made for the occasion.

The local passenger agent for the Colorado Midland announces that another fish car will be attached to the regular No. 3 next Saturday evening to accommodate all local fishermen who are desirous of enjoying a fishing trip into the mountains. The train will leave at 10:45 Saturday evening. The special car will be taken to Lake George and left there until 4:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, when it will be attached to a regular train, arriving in the city at 6:25.

Don't take our word for it.

Don't depend on a stranger's statement.

Read the statements of Colorado Springs citizens.

Here is one case of it:

Mr. Otto Rupp of 416 East Huerfano street, says: "When I contracted a cold it either weakened or over-excited my kidneys, and as a result I was annoyed both day and night by too frequent action of the kidney secretions. Reading about Doan's Kidney Pills curing similar cases, I procured a box at Smith-Wilson Drug Co.'s store, 31 North Tejon street, and took it. Much to my surprise and more to my gratification I was not only immediately benefited, but the weakness or over-excitement of my kidneys passed away."

FOREST FIRES IN THE WEST.

WITHIN the past week have come reports of serious forest fires in the White River forest reserve in Western Colorado and in the Yellowstone national park in Wyoming. Such fires are alarmingly frequent and while a most serious effort is being made to stop them that is not made before the mischief is done and the force available are entirely inadequate to secure the desired result

When once a fire is started it is almost impossible to check it except by natural methods such as a heavy rain or reaching an area not naturally combustible Unfortunately it is almost equally impossible to prevent the starting of the fires In nearly every case they result from the carelessness of campers who neglect to extinguish the fire which is too often built in such a way as to render a forest fire almost inevitable Dead wood will hold the fire like punk and in some cases the fallen trunk of a tree old and decayed will keep the fire many hours and carrying it to a considerable distance from its starting place Too often is a matter of contempt the fire is built beneath the branches of an evergreen in order to afford shelter from the rain or in some other position equally dangerous The smouldering fire may be fanned to a blaze by a rising wind or it may explode in the air in the form of burning materials All these things should emphasize the importance of strict observance of the excellent Colorado law upon the subject Thoroughly extinguish the fire before leaving it

While the largest proportion of [illegible] for the [illegible] proportion are intentionally criminal [illegible] of people [illegible] timber is more valuable than [illegible] ber and there is no doubt that some fires are started for the purpose of supplying the material desired by those whom the government permits to cut from outlying districts In some cases dead trees have been intentionally fired for other reasons

The most effective thing in preventing forest fires would be public sentiment that would understand the importance to the community of keeping the forests intact The work of the rangers is worse than useless unless the whole body of citizens [illegible] importance of the subject and to a determination that the forests must be protected comparatively little can be done We do not like to believe however that such a state of public sentiment does not exist throughout the entire region and that the chances for forest preservation are dead [illegible] than they were a few years ago

MR. TOWNE'S WITHDRAWAL.

THE significant part of Mr Towne s letter declining the honor of the Silver Republican nomination for vice president is to be found in the following sentence Geographically considered it was deemed wise to defeat a continuance of the candidate should be a man who by his record in congress and his public utterances would be satisfied with the fusion combination NOT ONLY BY HOLDING HIS PRINCIPLES AND ADVOCATING HIS CAUSE but also by the vote and influence he would command in the selection of Adlai E Stevenson

Nothing in the life of the silver Republican who was nominated by the Populists for vice president in 1896 has been more remarkable than the manner in which the Democratic convention did not consider him enough of a man to [illegible] their ticket Mr Towne s withdrawal from the ticket on the ground that he is [illegible] also might [illegible] when it [illegible] further along it would [illegible] Stevenson a little holding a position as nominee on another ticket

FACTS IN THE PHILIPPINES.

THE following facts regarding the American occupation of the Philippines are established beyond reasonable doubt

The original [illegible] at Manila took place May 1 1898 It was a military necessity first to destroy the Spanish fleet which was a menace to American commerce in the Pacific and to the western seaboard of this country and to secure a base for American operations in the Spanish waters The [illegible] and the protection of [illegible] and interest in the parts third to [illegible] Spain power and prestige in a section of the [illegible] securing a conclusion of the [illegible]

The retention of Dewey s squadron at Manila and the sending of reinforcements there from the arms were a result of the [illegible] already [illegible] and further because the [illegible] at Manila and the destruction of the Spanish fleets the United States had incurred obligations to the people of the city toward the Spanish residents of the island and toward foreign residents in the island and could not at [illegible] them to massacre and pillage which would undoubtedly have followed American withdrawal

The leaders of former rebellions against Spanish sympathy were not authorized to act as allies of the American forces and any promises of independence had been made by them [illegible] insurrection in [illegible] had been no attempt at independence but merely at the reform of Spanish abuses

On August 12 1898 the peace protocol was signed in Washington and by this a truce was established binding upon both the United States and Spain

On August 13 1898 news of the protocol not having reached Manila the city was occupied by the American forces the rest [illegible] of the Spaniards being perfunctory [illegible] of slight [illegible] This was accomplished without [illegible] and [illegible] he [illegible] were rigorously excluded from the city

The peace protocol gave the insurgents a chance to organize and to agitate and they improved their opportunities to the utmost While the [illegible] were [illegible] the protocol to take no action against Spain or its subjects and while Spain was too crippled by the war to undertake repressive measures for which she had [illegible] sufficient motive the insurgents organized a government, got together a congress and undertook to establish their authority over the island In this work they were materially assisted by speeches in the American congress and by articles in American newspapers, in which the anti-Americans were already beginning to misrepresent the facts and to assert that the Republican administration intended the subjugation of the natives and the establishment of a tyranny worse than that of Spain These statements translated into the vernacular were disseminated among the natives as showing the purpose of the American Government

In [illegible] of the islands native authority was established In some parts of the islands a laudable capacity for self-government was exhibited but the general rule was tyranny, unreasonable and grinding taxation the culmination of ancient quarrels and the wreaking of long delayed revenges and the stern repression of disaffection or disagreement with the policy of the leaders by summary and oftentimes barbarous punishments The wholesale massacre of the friars and of foreign residents was undoubtedly a part of the programme of some of the more influential leaders

Not until December 10 1898 four months after the protocol tied the hands of the American forces in the Philippines was the treaty of peace signed in Paris two months later February 6 1899 It was ratified by the American senate and not until March 17 when it was signed by the queen of Spain seven months after the signing of the protocol was the American administration entirely free to act in the islands for the suppression of insurrection and the establishment of order

The peace commissioners for the United States were ex Secretary of State William R Day senator C K Davis of Minnesota Senator William P Frye of Maine Senator George Gray of Maryland and Whitelaw Reid of New York The cession of the Philippines was accepted by the commissioners as a practical necessity of the situation, in spite of the fact that two at least of the members were known to have been opposed to the acquisition of the transpacific territory previous to the meetings of the commission

By the terms of the peace treaty Puerto Rico and the Philippines and the island of Guam were ceded to the United States in exactly similar terms

The ratification of the treaty by the United States senate required a two thirds vote which was secured after considerable debate and some delay The following Democratic senators voted for the treaty Clay Faulkner Gray Kenney Lindsay McLaurin Morgan Pettigrew Sullivan The following Populist Silver Republican and Silverite senators voted for the treaty Allen Butler Harris Jones of Nevada Kyle Stewart Teller Williams Jennings Bryan then a colonel in the United States army went to Washington and by his personal effort and influence changed the votes of several southern Democratic senators thus securing the necessary majority for the treaty

Previous to the ratification of the treaty and while the hands of the military authorities of the United States in the Philippines were still tied by the protocol the insurgents after carefully planning and organizing for months began an open attack upon the American army of occupation at Manila In the weeks preceding they had exhausted every means short of actual attack in the effort to bring about a collision with the United States troops but without success The attack began on the evening of February 4 1899 and continued in the morning of February 5 Its purpose was to drive the American army into the sea to [illegible] the city of Manila to [illegible] and to wreak vengeance upon the Spaniards for centuries of [illegible] and oppression It was influenced in part by the falsehood [illegible] sent from the United States that this country [illegible] the [illegible] of the Filipinos

The [illegible] of the Filipinos would be unwise because the only means of [illegible] would be compelled to assume responsibility for the [illegible] of the [illegible] millions and for the risks which would attend its [illegible] the [illegible] for military expedition [illegible] could not [illegible] after the [illegible] ing such a [illegible] must be remembered that in case the treaty is [illegible] negotiations must be renewed with [illegible] is not certain [illegible] over two years before the [illegible] campaign of 1900 If Mr Bryan with the small [illegible] had been [illegible] the Republican party [illegible] would not have kept silent [illegible] would be [illegible] The [illegible] states and [illegible] Three days thereafter Mr Bryan said [illegible]

Our people defended Cuba against [illegible] for [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] the government and need it [illegible] very [illegible] but [illegible] the government are assailed Our national honor must give up any intention of [illegible] bring upon a colonial policy such as is now pursued by foreign countries or it must abandon the doctrine that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed

I [illegible] that the [illegible] should be made [illegible] ratification of the treaty but I would prefer another plan If the treaty is rejected [illegible] with the possibility of [illegible] renewed with the possibility of [illegible] but [illegible] complications It will be [illegible] by ratifying the treaty and then dealing [illegible] as we deem best

[illegible] of the nation in this subject [illegible] of the [illegible] a month thereafter Jan 3 1899 the [illegible] declared that the president had transmitted [illegible] as in the New York Journal stated [illegible] Bryan published an article in the New York Journal giving as one of his reasons why the opponents of [illegible] should make their fight in support of a resolution declaring the [illegible] but [illegible] the [illegible] of the treaty [illegible] pointing out that the rejection of the treaty [illegible] After [illegible] cause [illegible] would [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] Republican majority [illegible] give the full [illegible] as the weightiest [illegible]

The rejection of the treaty would [illegible] the opportunity of the [illegible] treaty would be [illegible] for the [illegible] responsibility for the [illegible] millions and for the risks which would attend its [illegible] the [illegible] the [illegible] of the treaty [illegible] would [illegible] the [illegible] for military [illegible] after the [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Four Engines Ditched on Santa Fe Monday

A head-end collision and both trains [illegible] double headers

That was the kind of a wreck that took place at Breed[illegible] 10 miles north of Colorado Springs at 5 o'clock Monday morning

No one was hurt because [illegible] engineers and four firemen made [illegible] for their lives but it [illegible] most remarkable wrecks that ever occurred in the state and one of the most miraculous escapes from a terribly fatal disaster

Both trains were extras and both were freights The north bound left Colorado Springs at [illegible] behind extra having orders to take the siding but the engineer failed to remember that part of his instructions and thundered on double header into the other double header that was standing still

He saw his mistake early enough to make an effort to stop the train, but was unable to bring it to a standstill He and his fireman and the engineer and fireman of the other engine of his double jumped and the two engineers and two firemen of the other double seeing the danger leaped for their lives and no one was hurt

All four engines left the rails when the crash came the two leaders being considerably damaged about the boilers and the trucks Relief trains were rushed to the scene however and the early hours of the morning saw the track cleared Traffic was delayed four or five hours

Train No 8 had to run via Easton ville but No 9 ran via Palmer Lake There was an extra engine at Palmer Lake to be run down to Colorado Springs and to save [illegible] extra engine was attached to this extra and in this way the down train happened to be a double header

Thinks "On to Peking" a Dangerous Policy

[illegible] what [illegible] Current [illegible] Chaffee [illegible] Bonesteel [illegible] at the Alta Vista last night [illegible] Chaffee [illegible] remarked [illegible] [illegible] must [illegible] to them that the [illegible] nese will make them pay more [illegible] for the march to Peking than they [illegible] the force can stand but they continue to press forward

Dr Bonesteel makes his home in Peking but has spent a good part of the last five years traveling in Japan and China and has unusual knowledge of the situation

"The little handful of men [illegible] strong will be utterly annihilated if they continue to press their fight You see in the first battle of any consequence they [illegible] than 15 000 and it is safe to say many such battles will be fought before they reach Peking Then will come the [illegible] stance of the war that I [illegible] fight the Chinese will put up At Tang chow the Chinese can make it [illegible] hard for 20 000 men to [illegible] Tien Tsin [illegible] got a marker to what is coming But what puzzles me most is why the powers have sent 16 000 men [illegible] ward to fight a million Chinese The army of the latter as yet [illegible] that continent but on that he is reticent

Probable Murder on the Railroad Grade

Word reached the city yesterday of probable murder that was committed yesterday morning on the grade of the railroad about eight miles this side of Cripple Creek

Details were not received here [illegible] which the trouble was in Teller county and a Colorado Springs physician [illegible] called

The best information concerning the [illegible] is the following special to the Gazette

Victor Aug 7—Two men employed in camp No 7 working on the railroad grade of the Florence Springs and Cripple Creek Short Line near Clyde [illegible] bearing the paraphernalia, were beginning to unload Many a small boy remained up all night to get up early this morning and watch the interesting process of taking a gigantic circus from a train and preparing it for the reception of visitors soon after the lunch hour this afternoon The trains began to arrive early this morning, and 700 attendants and workmen were busy unloading or caring for their respective charges in an admirable systematic manner [illegible]

[illegible] the circus must [illegible] his work to do and they go about it without a word and as if every man was an automaton In less time than one would imagine the first train was unloaded and the grounds on the west side began to assume the aspect of a circus tent

The show is bringing to Colorado Springs 65 double length railroad cars and the equipment is in keeping with the [illegible] elephants 100 dens and cages 12 acres of tents 1 000 people 400 horses representing nearly $4 000 000 invested And the whole thing can be seen at the old price 25 cents for children 50 cents for adults

Of course everybody and his cousin will turn out to see the big street parade which starts at 10 o'clock and will pass in this [illegible] tion Of it is [illegible] Ringling Bros make a special feature of the afternoon performance which begins promptly at 2 The evening performance begins at 8 and doors are open at 7

Reserved seats [illegible] been placed on sale at Robinson's drug store corner of Tejon and Pikes Peak where those who desire can avoid the crush at the grounds

Special to Salt Lake

On [illegible] the Colorado Midland will run a special train consisting of Pullman sleepers and chair cars to Salt Lake at

$15 00—ROUND TRIP—$15 00

BRITISH CAPITAL SECURES ST. PATRICK LODE CLAIM

Negotiations for the Property Have Been Conducted in a Very Quiet Manner.

HAVE THE EXTENSION OF THE GOLD COIN VEIN

The Deal Has Been Engineered by William Weston--Henry Coats and Other Prominent Scotchmen Are Among the Heavy Stockholders--John McConaghy Late of the Gold Coin Will Probably be Asked to Remain as Mine Superintendent.

One of the most important sales yet made in the Cripple Creek district has just been consummated, and one which, if the mine turns out a pay one (of which there seems but little doubt), will prove to be of immense benefit to the entire state, as showing that foreign capitalists can come in here, and with care and foresight, and an honest engineer, get a good run for their money.

This sale is the more remarkable for the extremely quiet manner in which it has been conducted, and also for the fact that unlike most purchases of mining property, the buyers or new company, have got any shares for sale, nor have the public been invited to subscribe. In fact, there are no shares for sale, nor are there likely to be. The capital was all privately subscribed by a few personal friends of Mr. Weston's and his colleague, Mr. F. Norie-Miller's, with whom he visited last summer in Scotland.

St. Patrick Lode Claim Conveyed.

The property conveyed is the St. Patrick lode claim owned by the Gold Belt Mines Investment company, of which Mr. C. F. Rickey is president; Mr. J. D. O'Haire, vice president; Mr. John McConaghy, manager; Mr. Bruce Glidden, secretary. The two first were formerly associated with the Woods Investment company, and Mr. McConaghy was for four years the mine superintendent of the Gold Coin, and it was under his superintendence that this great mine grew from a prospect into a bonanza. Weston also be remembered that Mr. Weston made the first report on the Gold Coin, on which report the owners raised their first working capital by the sale of treasury stock, so that these two gentlemen, it may be assumed, are fairly well posted in that immediate section of the Cripple Creek district.

The Gold Coin vein is said by these gentlemen to extend through the St. Patrick ground and they have had the vein for some time past in their workings. It is well known that the Gold Coin main shaft pitches to the south, and as there is only about 500 feet of Mr. Rea intervening between the Gold Coin and the St. Patrick, the latter should get the Gold Coin shoot in depth. The St. Patrick shaft is now 350 feet deep, on a fine strong vein, which has been drifted on north and south for over 100 feet, and with most satisfactory results as to yield of gold.

Deal Been on For Six Months.

This has been no "snap shot" sale; the Scotchmen, through their agent, Mr. Weston, have been buying the treasury stock of the mine for six months, and the property has been managed by Mr. John McConaghy, and during his absence for three months in the east, by Mr. A. P. Gallagher, conjointly with Mr. Weston as consulting engineer for the Scotch people. The mine was also visited this spring by one of the largest English shareholders, but it was not until yesterday that the purchase price was received by the vendors and the deeds entered for record.

The purchase being in no sense a public one, the price has not been given. But the vendors, we are informed, took half cash and half shares in the new company, which is known as The St. Patrick Gold Mine Syndicate (Limited.) The registered office is in Perth, Scotland, and on this side in Colorado Springs. Mr. W. Weston being general manager and agent, and Mr. John McConaghy will probably be asked to remain as mine superintendent. The capital of the company is £80,000, divided into 80,000 shares of £1 each, with powers to increase the capitalization, if necessary.

Directors of the Company.

The first directors of the company are Henry Coats, Esq., of Pitculloh House, Perth; Sir Robert D. Menzies of Moncreffe, Bridge of Earn; F. Norie-Miller, Esq., of 14 Tay street, Perth; D. J. Wilson, Esq.; J. P. Banker, Perth; C. F. Rickey, Esq., Colorado Springs, and W. Weston, Esq., M. E., Colorado Springs.

Among the largest shareholders are Messrs. Henry and Archibald Coats, of the great firm of J. & P. Coats, the world-famous thread manufacturers, and in themselves a tower of financial strength and honorable dealing, and as Mr. Weston, who looked after their interests in this matter on this side, has a clear mining record in this state of over 20 years, and has made more correct predictions and reports on Cripple Creek properties than any other engineer, it is tolerably certain that they have secured a very good thing. Outside of this, it being practically a private syndicate, the public have no immediate concern with any other details.

Who the Original Owners Were.

The original owners of the property were Messrs. O'Haire, O'Driscoll and Gilchrist, who it is said still remain as stockholders in the new company, and with an English manager, and London, Scotch and Irish shareholders, it may be said to be truly a happy grouping of the rose, the shamrock and the thistle, on American soil.

The new company [illegible] capital, and those who know Mr. Weston's mining capabilities all realize that a most vigorous policy of development will be pursued.

Col. T. M. S. Rhett was retained as counsel for the purchasers during the negotiation.

WM. P. BONBRIGHT & CO.'S OFFICES

Completely and Handsomely Furnished Will Be Occupied in a Few Days.

The newly constructed offices of Messrs. William P. Bonbright & Co. are now having the finishing touches put to them and will be occupied by the firm in the next few days.

The removal from the temporary offices in the Mcintyre-Barnett block into the newly furnished quarters was commenced yesterday, and is being taken from one building to the other and several of the heavier pieces of furniture moved.

The firm will occupy exactly the same quarters as before the fire drove them out. The work of the flames, however, necessitated that every thing from cellar to ceiling should be new and advantage has been taken of the opportunity to remodel the entire offices, which has been done in a very handsome and thorough manner. The new arrangements are very complete and will add more than ever to the comfort of the members of the firm, its clients and employes, everything having been very well thought out.

The customers' room, which a few months ago was located towards the rear part of the building, is now in the very front facing on Tejon street, and the big blackboard can be plainly seen from the street. This is the same size as before and is the largest of its kind in town, not excepting the big ones at the Colorado Springs Mining Stock exchange. It is about 10 feet long and 12 feet high. It will be attended to by Joe Dayton as of yore and the morning and afternoon calls will be posted up for the convenience of the customers and friends of the house, as well as the general public, every business day during the week.

This big blackboard is on the north wall in a splendid light. On the south side of the building is a row of offices for the heads of various departments. The first one after leaving the entrance will be occupied by Messrs. George D. Bonbright, Fred. W. Stehr and W. E. Fegtly. Next is one to be used by Mr. C. L. Kernochan, and still further east one for Mr. Geo. Rex Buckman. Still traveling east the handsomely appointed banking department is reached with stock department adjoining. Behind this again is Mr. William P. Bonbright's private office to which the heavy mahogany furniture will once again be removed. The office originally occupied by Mr. Bonbright will in future be used by Mr. L. E. Curtis and this will also be handsomely appointed.

We now come to that part of the building the main entrance to which faces on Kiowa street. A large portion of it will be retained as now [illegible] keepers, but Mr. Henry Hine, general manager of the Colorado Springs Electric company, with which Messrs. Bonbright & Co. are so largely connected, will also have his headquarters and office in this section.

Outside of all this are various apartments for stenographers, mailing department, stationery department, etc., and altogether the firm will find itself splendidly equipped in its new quarters.

THROUGH LILLIE WORKINGS

Lucky Friday Claim of Goldfield Company to be Fully Developed by a Crosscut from the 450 Foot Level.

An arrangement has been made which is of the utmost importance to Goldfield shareholders. The Lucky Friday claim of this company will be developed through the workings of the Lillie company and a cross-cut to the Lucky Friday ground will be run from the 450-foot level, the depth from which most of the rich Lillie ore was hoisted. It is an especial concession on the part of the Lillie company, and the Goldfield company will be compelled to defray only the cost of hoisting their own waste and ore, no additional charge being made for the use of the shaft and underground workings. Hoisting on account of the Goldfield's operations will only be in progress one hour during the day, so that the new arrangements will not interfere with the Lillie's work, it will. A number of the cross-cuts run from the 450-foot level on the Lillie reach almost to the side lines of the Lucky Friday, and it will not be long before the Goldfield will be doing active work to cut ore on the big veins of that locality. Work under the new arrangement will be started on September 1. Mining Expert Glasgow investigated both the Lillie and Lucky Friday workings last week and stated that one of the Lillie veins was bound to dip into the Goldfield's property, and from there into the Christmas claim. On the Lucky Friday a shaft has been sunk to a depth of 125 feet, but nothing better than stringers has ever been cut. The claim, however, is in an admirable location, one and a half acres of which is between the properties of the Liberator, Lillie and Christmas companies. The remaining five acres of this claim lie toward the southeast. Another one of the holdings of the Goldfield is the Xenophon on Bull mountain. The funds in the treasury will permit quite complete developments from now on until ore is struck.

GOOD SHIPMENTS FOR ARGENTUM-J.

Every day the Argentum-Juniata receives more encouraging reports from the recent strike made on the sixth level. The shipments from this discovery have done wonders toward replenishing the treasury, and from $25,000 in June, as the company was 4 years ago, there is now a fine treasury reserve which will be used to further developments on the property. In the local office returns [illegible] were received yesterday morning. A high grade 30-ton shipment returned an average of 886 ounces in silver, and the company was thus netted $15,000. A second low-grade lot was also sent out. This consignment assayed 115 ounces and yielded a net profit of $2,500. By these two lots the treasury reserve was thus increased almost $20,000.

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

There was a noticeable improvement in today's market so far as volume of trading was concerned. Prices continued very firm and there is certainly no break ahead. The prospects, which are generally in greatest demand were again extremely inactive, and the sales in this list were scant. All the interest was centered on the high priced stocks, especially in the mines list. This always has a healthy effect on the market, when Alamos or established merit are in greatest demand, as it is demonstrative of confidence in the future. In addition, the commissions are higher when the more expensive stocks are dealt in, and this is a most fortunate issue.

The total number of shares traded in were 588,365, with a total cash value of $197,725.87.

MINING NOTES AROUND TOWN

HILL'S OFFICIAL MANUAL RECEIVING PRAISE EVERYWHERE.

Mr. Fred Hill's fine production, the Official Manual of Cripple Creek, is receiving praise everywhere. Speaking of it in their last market letter, Messrs. William P. Bonbright & Co. say:

The Official Manual of the Cripple Creek District has been issued and it more than meets the high expectations which had been formed regarding it. It is a superbly printed and bound volume of about 500 pages, and contains the outlines of 425 Cripple Creek companies, with an accurate plat of the property holdings of each. The book is further embellished with nine full page illustrations of scenes in the Cripple Creek district. By way of introduction, Mr. T. A. Rickard, state geologist of Colorado, contributes an exceedingly valuable and interesting article on "The Cripple Creek District, Its Past and Future." Mr. George H. Buckman follows with an article entitled "Cripple Creek from the Standpoint of Statistics." The colored map which accompanies the book is a work of art, as well as to the work, and is by far the most accurate, as it is by far the handsomest, map yet produced. The work as a whole is an unqualified success, and is a worthy exponent of America's greatest gold district. The price is $5.00, and copies may be obtained by addressing the publisher, Mr. Fred Hills, Colorado Springs.

MONARCH COMPANY TO SINK ON MINNEHAHA.

Every effort is being made to make a mine out of the Minnehaha claim of the Monarch company and the latest development is that the shaft, which is now at the 200-foot level will be continued to 300 feet before a crosscut is made for the Jennie Sample vein. Saunders of Cripple Creek was granted the contract. Lessees on the northern end of the claim are low down 200 feet and are crosscutting for the same rich vein.

LEHR LEASE PURCHASED BY CRIPPLE CREEK PARTIES.

Miller and Vickers of Cripple Creek have purchased the Lehr lease running on the Bonnie Nell property and will, according to the renewed contract either enlarge the present shaft or sink a new one. The contract, however, calls for a shaft 250 feet deep and as the one now by the lessees is undersized and not of a sufficient capacity, a new one is more practical. This lease has always shown up well. Some time ago the lessees reporting high assays on the ground. These were then proved groundless.

DOCTOR-ADVANCE TROUBLE TO BE ADJUSTED.

The difficulty between the Doctor and Advance companies will probably be amicably settled by offering the presidency of the last-named company to W. D. Marmaduke, who is also interested in the Winchester lease on the Doctor. Thus the two properties will doubtless be worked together. The principal holding of the Advance company is the Mary Jane, a fractional claim located between the Doctor, Nugget and Jack Pot companies. This fraction is thought by some to contain the famous apex of the rich vein which has been opened up on each of these three claims.

DEVELOPMENTS ON TRACHYTE MOUNTAIN.

The Doctas company will resume work on the Summit tunnel on Trachyte mountain, and will push developments in hopes of cutting one of the veins, the outcroppings of which were so prominent on the surface. Work on this property has been suspended for three months.

OIL CREEK TO DRIVE TUNNEL 1,000 FEET MORE.

The Oil Creek tunnel has awarded a contract to Joe McMoore to drive its tunnel another 1,000 feet. This tunnel is already in the ground 600 feet.

SHIPMENTS FROM ANACONDA AND WILD HORSE.

A shipment of 21 tons of ore was made from the Hartshorn lease on the Anaconda. Ten tons were of screenings and it is expected that the entire shipment will assay $50 to the ton.

The Wild Horse yesterday started a shipment of ten cars of smelting ore. The shipment consists of 150 tons of ore.

SPLENDID COLORED PHOTOS OF THE PORTLAND MINE.

Generally speaking it is difficult to make a pretty or interesting picture out of a mining scene. Both have, however, been accomplished in some very large photographs which have been taken of the great Portland mine for President James Burns. A few of these pictures are to be seen around town as Mr. Burns has presented them to a few friends, by whom they are highly appreciated. The picture is artistically but truthfully colored and shows the immense shaft house, ore bins, offices, etc., of the company as they are located on Battle mountain, and it also takes in a large sweep of the company's territory from which so much riches have been extracted. The whole is surrounded by a heavy mat and enclosed in a hard wood Florentine frame, making one of the handsomest pictures representative of the Cripple Creek district ever seen.

NO TRUTH IN ISABELLA ORPHAN COMBINE TALK

The Isabella Co. Does Not Own a Share of Orphan Stock--Has Not Had Anything to Do With the Property.

A whole lot of twaddle has been appearing in a goodly portion of the state press during the past few days relative to the alleged affairs of the Isabella and Orphan Gold Mining companies.

The busy guessers have been guessing again and this time have persuaded themselves that there is a deal on between the Isabella and Orphan companies. It was a guess pure and simple but it served its purpose by being well strung out, filling a good deal of space and causing some comment. It will not add to the various papers' reputation for reliability, however, as there is absolutely no truth in the statements that have been made.

An evening paper of this city, and presumably the leading evening paper, was so anxious to give circulation to these guesses that it actually reprinted a whole lot about them word for word as the story appeared in another paper the evening previous. But even this does not make the story true.

The reports, guesses and rumors about this supposed deal were to the effect that the Isabella Gold Mining company was going to purchase or in some way absorb the adjoining properties belonging to the Orphan Gold Mining company. The Isabella company was going to increase its capitalization, so the story went, to 3,000,000 shares and pay for the Orphan company a property in the added shares. And then a whole lot of unimportant and irrelevant matter was added to make the story seem as lifelike as possible.

As a matter of fact there is not a word of truth or a semblance of truth in the whole idea. The Isabella company does not own a share of Orphan stock; it has not purchased the Orphan company's property and does not contemplate so doing. If there are any who have been influenced by rumors to the contrary and have purchased Orphan shares with the idea that the properties will be consolidated with the Isabella company's holdings they had better have a care as the Gazette knows whereof it speaks, and, as in the case of the Wilson Creek company's affairs, offers a timely warning.

REPORTED STRIKE ON CONSTANTINE

Strenuous Rumors from Camp Booms Stock, Though Officers of the Company Deny Everything.

Constantine Consolidated was the feature of the call yesterday, the stock advancing with great rapidity. From a quotation of 6 cents on Saturday Constantine closed yesterday at 8 cents. The officials as yet have received no startling news which would justify this rise, though there is an extremely strong and well authorized report current, to the effect that ore has been encountered on the Constantine claim. This report is full of details. Sub-lessees under Selbach brothers of Cripple Creek are accredited with making the find on the extreme southern end of the claim in a cross-cut from the second level. A description of the pay vein could not be learned, but the frantic efforts to secure the stock during yesterday's call lends color to these rumors. An officer offers as a solution for the sudden rise the fact that pay ore has been uncovered on a Squaw mountain property in the immediate vicinity of the recently purchased Tipton claim. There is every probability that the strike was actually made on the Constantine, as the lessees are at a sufficient depth and the claim is in a most admirable location, being a sideline of the Raven and Ida May properties. In addition to the Constantine, the company owns the Julia E., a five-acre claim between the Jennie Sample of the Gould company and of the Doctor property.

FETE TOMORROW FOR DAY NURSERY

Annual Event Takes Place at Willamette and Tejon Facts About the Work of the Institution.

The third annual mid summer lawn fete of the Colorado Springs Day Nursery takes place tomorrow morning (Thursday August 9 from 10 to 12 Upon the grounds surrounding the residence of Mrs C A Eldredge East Willamette and North Tejon street The pleasant place will be prettily decorated for the occasion and a bevy of lads will receive the guests Only the nominal fee of ten cents will be charged as a mission An orchestra will be stationed upon the plazza and discourse popular selections Some clever young society people will perform a very amusing farce besides delicious ice cream and cake will be served to all who wish This event has proven very attractive to the children and special provision has been made for their entertainment While having a merry time there will be the satisfaction of knowing that by their patronage of the fete other children less favored than themselves are being aided

In connection with this announcement something in regard to the Day Nursery may not be lacking in interest for the general public Through the indefatigable efforts of a strong corps of Colorado Springs most philanthropic women the organization already has a fine new building and its own located at 26 South Tejon street Its worth was upwards of $5 000 and it is free from all incumbrances This would have been an impossible undertaking but for the splendid donations of money labor furnishings etc upon the part of the [illegible] who had contributed toward the success of the undertaking could have been witnesses of the one scene of the joy of the little ones house I there over the beautiful gift laden tree at last Christmas time they would be more than glad that they owned shares in such a profitable investment, and resolve to own more

The site of the nursery 26 South Tejon street is an admirable one both for convenience and healthfulness While convenient to the center of the city it is not shut in and will always have an unobstructed view of the surrounding country The building is a substantial one of wood painted in neutral tints and supplied with all modern conveniences It could upon the front Then a fine large play or school room connecting are two rooms for boys and girls A comfortable dining room and kitchen supplied with convenient pantries and below the laundry is located

Just now the management is particularly fortunate in the presiding genius of the place a thoroughly competent plucky college girl who during her vacations is accumulating something toward continuing her education

Mrs S A Miller who has been in similar work and comes highly recommended has been matron since July while Mrs W E Pollock has charge of the older children Both show them how to be natural mothers and the children hover around them as much as possible where love and confidence are established

The second floor contains two dormitories fitted up with comfortable cribs and beds for the children The large room in front is known as the hospital for here are instants removed any ailing ones who are kept there till the attending physician does just what shall be done Just at present the [illegible] couple by a little [illegible] Burdick who has been struggling ill with [illegible] monia but is now [illegible] seen yesterday morning with his mother with a box of paints and a jolly [illegible] Marjorie is pretty sick One of the girls this hot just to what home a Bridget but his chief [illegible] was in the matter slippers while also with [illegible] rie Dark eyed [illegible] and a tiny sister [illegible] these children of more than ordinary interest which the [illegible] will well be maintained at the nursery for many years Besides is a short sharp little soul very anxious to [illegible]

Mr. Parrish Talks of British Columbia Mines

After six months in the mining fields of British Columbia Fred Parrish arrived [illegible] for twenty seven days in the city for a visit of one week to mingle with his numerous friends To those who remain steadily in Colorado Springs [illegible] marvelous development of the camp is not appreciated It can be what remains away as Mr Parrish has It is also able to draw a striking picture of extensive development and ongoing mining activity which is little short of [illegible] those who have not seen It He is now the guest of Albert S Pearson at 32 South Tejon street

Even though I spent twenty years in Cripple Creek and I believe I was astonished to find the [illegible] still [illegible] things particularly Cripple Creek have taken [illegible] Mr Parrish last night The [illegible] means [illegible] than any [illegible] roads to mote development Copper Creek has a future of [illegible] his gen rather will [illegible] all short [illegible] any in [illegible]

Interesting from British [illegible] enormous amounts that are expended in opening and exploring new districts It is remarkable to what [illegible] with which Englishmen and Canadians go to [illegible] well The Canadian Pacific invested for instance has invested $600 000 to [illegible] branch lines over the boundary Creek Rossland and other districts that are coming to the county along its main line

Mr Parrish is in charge of extensive [illegible] interests in the Rossland district with some Montreal capitalists [illegible] the B C mine which has a record with a value of six months copper

We have an exhibit at the Pan American at the Rossland Deffect at [illegible] and a number [illegible] mines one with a daily product of [illegible] a day [illegible] the current gold ore with the [illegible] district will be very [illegible] a few years the [illegible] that is going on now in [illegible] the [illegible] of the country the front ranks of mining districts of the world The ore [illegible] and formation [illegible] to Montana and down to [illegible] with Rossland [illegible] Mr Parrish left [illegible] for Victoria [illegible] the quantity [illegible] the smelting for the Rossland district is now in excess of [illegible] the Boundary Creek and East Kootenay side The new smelters in the Rossland district are now in excess of construction [illegible] the Lanell spine the product is almost entirely gold

The [illegible] of Montreal and associates [illegible] have [illegible] and are making more interested every day in Cripple Creek and [illegible] Mr Parrish to take up [illegible] properties and I believe there is going to be a wonderful influx of capital into these districts during the [illegible] opportunities

Mr Parrish will return to British Columbia in a few days

BRIEF CITY ITEMS

In the [illegible] proceeding of Lee vs Lee a verdict was rendered in favor of plaintiff

In the case of Destefano vs Harris in county court judgment was entered on verdict yesterday

Mr Edward R [illegible] March one of the well known young business men of Colorado Springs left the [illegible] last night for Grand Rapids Mich in which city on Aug [illegible] will again take up his home Miss Julia Sligh Hawkins daughter of Mr and Mrs Lewis C Hawkins formerly of Colorado Springs the marriage will take place in the [illegible] church on the 16th at 8 o'clock p m at the home of the bride's parents North Tejon street Grand Rapids Mr and Mrs March will make their home in Colorado Springs

The [illegible] in the district court of John J Tootle et al in which he district court was asked to compel the defendant to convey certain property and render judgment for $1 000 damages alleged to have been sustained by the failure of Tootle to keep his agreement the sale was ordered vested having been withdrawn by the previous day with leave to amicable settlement The parties found they could not reach a settlement and Mr Nichols procured a receipt for the suit

C H W Snow and daughter of Kankakee Ill are at the Mansions in Manitou Col Snow was formerly a member of congress from what is now Congressman Joe Cannons district He was elected on the Democratic ticket but ran on Bryans nomination for the presidency in 1896 he has voted the Republican ticket and contributed liberally to the campaign funds

COLORADO SPRINGS GAZETTE WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 8, 1900

P. T. Barnum's Greatest Show on Earth

Was operated along the same lines adopted more recently by some piano dealers. Barnum's trite saying, "the American people like to be humbugged," seems to be their business motto. Selling cheaply made and stenciled pianos at high prices is one of the things The Montelius Piano Co. has never been willing to do. Any instrument which cannot stand the severest test of the most expert piano judges as to construction, tone and the reliability of its maker cannot find place on our floors.

Our anti-Barnum policy has been a grand success. It has enabled us to sell more pianos this first month of our business in Colorado Springs than we expected to sell in three.

We represent the best pianos to be had at the prices we ask. Not the relics of the piano successes of years ago; no trading here on the reputations of dead manufacturers and bygone days. We handle such well known and reputable makes as the

and other leading makes. We're just a block off Tejon street. That's no disadvantage in reaching us, and its a big advantage in the way of prices. With so much lower a rental we are enabled to make the lower prices you demand for going a little out of the way.

Our immense warehouse in Denver, the largest in the state, which supplies our many branch stores, and where every piano is thoroughly seasoned and then tested before being sent out, constantly carries in the neighborhood of 200 pianos. It is because of this thorough seasoning and test that we never have any trouble with pianos after they are sold. It's just such careful attention to business that enables us to sell more pianos in Colorado than any other house.

Come and see what we have. Whether or not you come to buy you will always be welcomed and receive the same courteous treatment accorded any purchaser. If you can't call, write. We will gladly give you the fullest information.

The Montelius Piano Co personally holds all its customers' paper It never has discounted sold nor traded a dollars worth of its customers paper Neither has it ever put up a customers note as collateral for borrowed money Neither does it borrow money We treat all our customers as well as good intention and abundant capital can Trip Through Wisconsin Forms An Object Lesson.

(Special Correspondence.)

Monroe, Wis., July 31.—After 26 years' residence among the foot hills of Colorado, with barren plains for the ground work of all landscapes looking away from the mountains, to see the fertile plains of the Mississippi during the ingathering of the crops, seems like a new revelation of our country.

The acres after acres of corn, even reaching to the horizon, looking from the car-window, alternating with immense fields of wheat and oats, speak of plenty of food for man and beast, and give assurance of no such famine as that of India ever being our weird guest. True, the elements that give to us rain and sunshine are not under our control, but what never has come to us in our country, we have good reason to expect never will.

One wonders how, and where all the grain can be disposed of, but the people of the United States are a well-fed people, yet always wanting something better. Some new preparation of our grains, better fed cattle, to provide choice meat for our failing appetites for common food. Indeed, could our fields of grain transform our cattle into all loin and porterhouse steak from horn to hoof, we would only consider that we were receiving our just deserts for being so enterprising a people. We err, because we want more, and people of other nations die for lack of that which we won't eat. While we are ——— or something good to eat, we ——— nations outward—those who have nothing and the India sufferers are enjoying part of our abundant harvest.

Necessity, ever the mother of invention, must needs find some other way than by hand, to harvest such large crops of grain. Where my husband 35 years ago cradled wheat with a sickle, now the reaper and binder move quietly along, drawn by two horses with one man on the machine, while the grain is falling on one side and rolling off the other tied in sheaves ready to be shocked. [illegible] the skill of the reaper horses and driver, so that we can see only the falling grain on one side laid aside in a sheaf. On the other in less than a minute, and we have an exhibition of an American up-to-date sleight-of-hand performance.

Look beyond to the next field of hay and you may see a man driving along steadily and the hay gradually crawling up on the load from behind the wagon, apparently of its own free will. No rakes, no pitchforks, no other men or horses anywhere near.

On the next quarter section, without fence between, you might see a man riding on a strange sort of rig. The [illegible] is made under or iron, and with very broad tires and somewhere among the wheels you catch sight of a steel blade that glitters as the sun strikes it between the clods of earth. When the driver has had a good long ride behind his four horses, his field is plowed, and plowed deep, too.

Another 25 years, and I wonder if the automobile will grow and harvest the crops by clockwork, without even man or horse in the field?

A feature of Wisconsin cities as found in Madison and Monroe that has not been adopted in Colorado, so far as I know, is that of the city being laid out from the central square. Here in Monroe the court house occupies the square with the grounds around it known. The business houses are principally on the blocks facing the square, and the teams from out of town usually stand hitched next the square. All directions are given as such-a direction and such a distance from the square.

Strange to say, the authorities tried hard not to put the court house on the square as Ft Faso authorities are doing in put their court house on the square.

How people do differ? It is the spice of life, though, so we will let them differ when we can't help ourselves.

In Madison, the capitol occupies the square. The grounds are laid out beautifully and the building is fine in structure. The material of the building is affected by the effects of the weather. In the historical department we found a bound copy of "The Pennsylvania Gazette" of 1739-1740. Benjamin Franklin yet lives in the old copies of his paper, and his paper yet lives as the Saturday Evening Post.

Another book printed on vellum by hand, about 1386, was a prayer-book in Latin and French. The book came from Copenhagen.

Printing was invented in 1450. "The Moremberg Chronicle" is a large-bound volume of history, from the beginning of the world to the end of Columbus' first voyage. It contains 2250 illustrations, and was bought in New York for $130.

When we grew tired wandering through the historical rooms, we climbed up the three drop steps of Daniel Webster's carriage, and rested in the seats where Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, Martin Van Buren, Charlotte Cushman and other notables had ridden.

From the roof of the capitol there is a magnificent view of the city and its surrounding lakes.

Lake Menona, lying to the south across which is located one of the Chautauqua grounds of the state.

We visited the state university science building where we saw many curious and wonderful collections. I noticed some from Bijou Basin in our own county. The library building is nearly completed. The inside finish with stairways of white, clouded marble is beautiful. The electric lights from the panels in the ceiling of the reading room must give a gorgeous appearance to the room at night.

It was my pleasure to visit Mrs. Helen Fleming who boarded the college girls before Ticknor hall was completed. Mrs. Fleming and her husband both graduated from the university in the 70's, and the past year she has made a home boarding place for the next generation of students. Miss Josephine is teaching music, and Miss Katherine goes to Chicago the coming year to finish her course in kindergarten.

We spent a week camping on the grounds of the Monona assembly, and heard sermons and lectures from a variety of celebrities, among whom were Dr. McIntyre of Colorado fame, Bishop McCabe, Leon H. Vincent, Eugene B. Cushing, Clara Hoffman, Rev. Anna Shaw, Mrs. Isabel Garghill Beecher, Mrs. Bertha King Baker and others. Rev. Sam Jones and Claudet's band were among the last entertainers we heard, but by no means the least in popularity.

The grounds are beautiful on the shore of the lake and the ride on the steamers that ply between the assembly and Madison was a treat to us Coloradoans who have so little opportunity for pleasure on the face of the water.

The largest attendance was probably when Sam Jones lectured. About 5,000 were present. One evening between 1,100 and 1,200 came over from Madison on the four small steamers.

There were over 900 season tickets sold. About 400 Chautauquans were present. Wisconsin has four Chautauqua assemblies located in different parts of the state. Surely Lake Monona, recently for beauty of situation and convenience to the capital city cannot be outdone.

It was interesting to watch the old people who had gone on with their education after the duties of their prime of life were laid aside. We are never too old to learn, or to enjoy learning if we will.

Women's suffrage came in for its full share of discussion. To us it seemed out of date, we so soon forget the "dark ages" condition of affairs.

Mrs. Hoffman conducted the W. C. T. U. institute. Wisconsin has nearly 4,000 white ribbonites and 9,000 members of the Loyal Temperance Legions. Of the last, 700 are senior graduates of scientific and moral instruction from the legions. Prof. Atwater cannot undo that instruction. Mrs. Hoffman gave the replies to Prof. Atwater from leading representatives of the medical fraternity of the world that stated Prof. Atwater's experiments to be insufficient and misleading.

PLAIN BUSINESS SENSE.

(Special Correspondence.)

Washington, August 6.—"In time of [illegible] essential for the well-being of one [illegible] another. In time of prosperity prepare for adversity. Times are [illegible] serious now. Never before in our history has such an immense and profitable volume of business been [illegible]. It cannot be expected that all [illegible] will be like this year. Crops will [illegible]. Speculation induced by prosperity may lead to unsafe investments and consequent hard times. But the administrators of the nation must will provide as far as possible to [illegible] and diversify the industries of the nation that a good degree of prosperity may be expected under all normal conditions. As a people we grow more than we can eat. We dig from the mines more than we can consume. We plough, weave, forge, shape and make more than we can use. Field, forest, mine and factory all produce more than enough to supply any possible demand. This is a condition, not a theory, which can be met in but two ways. Reduce the output or increase the purchasers. The former is impossible. The latter is expansion. It is possible to stand still. We must expand or backward. The channels of the world's commerce are, never [illegible]. The struggle of the 20th century will be for markets. Business has no sentiment. The purchaser, be he Turk, Japanese, English or [illegible], will buy where he can buy the best. The nation that can undersell the rest of the world will control the commerce of the world. It is the policy of the Republican party to protect our industries, encourage manufacturing, and thus create a demand for labor. This, however, is but half of the problem. The organization or the individual that increases production, without enlarging the demand and increasing consumption must come to grief. Goods stacked in warehouses represent dead capital, not both for material and labor. McKinley, not content with opening factory, opened the markets to the output of loom, spindle, pick [illegible].

The result is almost beyond belief. The exports of the United States for the fiscal year 1900 amounted to the enormous sum of $1,394,479,214. This is among all classes of industries, an increase over the fiscal year of any the country had ever before known under any administration, as follows:

Agricultures	$1,000,000
Forestry	10,000,000
Mining	10,000,000
Manufacture	50,000,000
Total increase	100,000,000

Keep up this record and progress. The normal growth is the purpose of the Republican party. It has perfected a reciprocity treaty with Germany, and another with Italy in order to increase the sales of American products in those lands, a policy inaugurated by that matchless American statesman, James G. Blaine.

The administration secured "an open door policy" in the orient so that when the Chinese troubles are over, without the necessity of taking a foot of land, or keeping a single soldier in China, our products shall have every advantage enjoyed by those of the most favored nations interested in the east. The importance of this diplomatic triumph may be to some extent realized when it is remembered that one-third of the products of all the looms of the southern states finds a market in the orient.

It is the pronounced policy of the Republican party to stimulate trade the world over. It advocates a ship subsidy [illegible] that our products may float the American flag, transport American goods, carry American mails, and open new markets for American products. American banking institutions are established in [illegible] China in order that exchange of money may be effected without our business having to pass through London, paying a toll to British financiers.

The Republican party advocates the laying of a Pacific cable with landing places on American territory, Hawaii, Guam and the Philippines. The lack of such a cable is felt more and more every day, and its operation would have simplified very much the Chinese situation. Close mail and telegraphic communication are better than armies to keep nations at peace with each other.

The Republican party stands pledged to encourage the building of an Isthmian canal, not as a fomenter of war, but as a peace measure and a commerce stimulator, because such a transoceanic waterway would facilitate the transportation of American goods, and allow this country to secure more trade in foreign markets.

The mission of the party of prosperity will not be over until there are no more markets to conquer. It is charged that this is not a noble mission, that it is rank commercialism. But it is more than that. It is rank industrialism. It is providing work for factories, labor for laborers, transportation for goods. It makes the pay roll fatter. It is the policy that cancels mortgages, builds homes for working men, creates a demand for the grain of the field, the meat of the pasture, and the iron and coal of the mine. It is rational and national prosperity founded on wisdom; not a promised prosperity created by cutting a dollar in two and calling each half a whole.

A radical departure from this policy is advocated by the Democrats in their avowed purpose to destroy protection and oppose expansion. The triumph of their policy, if put upon the statute books would result in American furnaces becoming cold and American shuttles being silent. English looms would weave for us and German mills would do our forging. American labor would find its occupation gone.

There is a difference between the two political parties. The Republicans do want to govern the markets of the world, and to reign over the distribution of the world's bread and meat, securing in this way work at home for every honest laborer, markets for the products of our farms, and becoming such a factor in the world that will compel peace and justice among the nations of the earth. It is the policy which will hasten that blessed time promised by the prophet of old when the sword shall be beaten into plowshares and the spear into pruning hooks. It is the Republican policy.

Surgeon Joseph M. Heifer, who has seen brave service in the Philippines and has just got home, has given an interesting description of a Filipino fete in which a toast was drunk to "Bryan and Aguinaldo." Mr. Bryan ought to send word to the Filipino rebel chiefs, through Senator Pettigrew, who seems a useful go-between, that Mr. Stevenson is the candidate of the Democratic party for vice-president and not Aguinaldo.

The school teachers of Cuba had a glorious trip to this country in the government transport. After going back to Cuba they will be able to work with broadened ideas and fresher zeal for the welfare of the growing generation of Cuba. This incident is part and parcel of Republican "Imperialism." It is surprising that, as such, it is meeting with no denunciation from the oracles of the Democratic party.

In one year (1894) of Democratic vote, the wage-earners of the United States depleted their savings deposits by more than $37,000,000. Since McKinley has been president they have earned enough to save and invest a surplus in savings banks deposits alone of more than $480,000,000.

The "Full Dinner Pail" is an argument for the farmer as well as for the city laborer. Who supplies what is put in the pail? The farmer. If the city laborer has his wages cut in two by free silver, and is put out of a job by the closing of the mills, the farmer suffers equally for the farmer may give away, but he cannot sell, the products of his farm which the city laborer cannot afford to buy. It is because of the "full dinner pail" that the farmer is getting so much better prices for what he sells than he could get before the election of McKinley. It is because of the "full dinner pail" that he has paid off his mortgages, and become a lender of money where he used to be a borrower.

What is Mr. Bryan's plan for the disposition of the Philippines? The only inference from his speeches is that he would let loose fair promises and honeyed words, and on the strength of these would withdraw the American troops from the Philippines. What would prevent, after withdrawal of the American troops, the same horrors in Manila that have visited Paris, as soon as the natives who had helped to suppress the Tagal insurrection after they were thus left to the devices of the Aguinaldo, whose cruelty did not stop at the murder of his own generals?

Queer Chinese Superstitions.

An incident illustrative of the danger lying in this direction is related by Mr. Chester Holcombe, for many years secretary of the American legation at Peking. When General Grant was visiting China, Mr. Holcombe secured for him a privilege never before at that time accorded to a foreigner, the privilege of admission into the sacred precincts of the Temple of Heaven in Peking. Now it is contrary to the settled belief of the Chinese to admit a member of the female sex, old or young, even to the temple ground under any circumstances. It is said that should a Chinese guard venture even to carry a baby girl in his arms within the forbidden lines he would probably be punished with death. Not knowing of these restrictions, a number of ladies in general Grant's party ventured to follow him when he visited the sacred edifice. Realizing the seriousness of this action, Mr. Holcombe afterward apologized to the emperor's representative for the conduct of his countrywomen, and was informed that the intrusion would be overlooked, but must be kept as secret as possible, for should the populace learn of it an anti-foreign outbreak would be likely to follow. They would not forgive such a pollution of their most sacred building.—(Leslie's Weekly.

Cruelty of the Chinese.

It is reported that the native Christians and some of the Japanese and European soldiers captured during the present troubles have been forced to undergo the ling chee, a peculiar and popular method of Chinese torture, the operations of which are enough to make the flesh creep with horror. There are various degrees of ling chee, differing only in the length of time in which the victim is made to suffer. Its chief and most hideous feature consists in the slow slicing away with a huge sword or knife of the victim's ears, hands, feet, and other portions of the body. Where the operation is supposed to be tempered with a little mercy, obtained generally by a bribe, the executioner cuts off only the [illegible] of the arms and the arms, and then puts an end to the agony by plunging his knife into the heart. If more exquisite torture, and therefore more [illegible] for the [illegible], is desired, the cutting up process is drawn out as long as possible, the vital parts being avoided with the knife. The extremities are hacked off, piece by piece, the fleshy parts of the thighs sliced away, the eyes gouged out, and other mutilations inflicted which are simply indescribable. All this is done too often to a man accused of a crime, which in most civilized countries would call only for a brief term of imprisonment.—(Leslie's Weekly.

Paderewski's Playing.

"Paderewski's Bach-playing," writes D. [illegible] Mason in the August Century, "is much like that of my old teacher (Moscheles). Several years ago, in company with Adolf Brodsky, the violinist, I attended one of Paderewski's recitals given in this city. After listening to compositions of Bach and Beethoven, Brodsky said: 'He lays everything from A to Z before you in the most conscientious way, and through delicacy and sensitiveness of perception, he attains a very close and artistic adjustment of values. Thoroughly in accord with Brodsky, I vividly recall the similarity of Paderewski's interpretation to that of Moscheles, both being characterized by perfect repose in action, while at the same time not lacking in intensity of expression. The modern adaptations and alterations from Bach are not here referred to, but the music as originally written by the composer. In Paderewski's conception and performance, like that of Moscheles, each and all of the voices received careful and reverent attention, and were brought out with due regard to their relative, as well as to their individual, importance. Nuances were never neglected, neither were they in excess of the musical requirements of polyphonic interpretation were artistically fulfilled. Head and heart were united in skilful combination and loving response."

SEA SERPENT, OR

Some 50 Whitestone Bathers Who Saw it Incontinently Pulled for Shore.

New York, July 23.—(Special.)—Some strange creature of the deep has caused a wave of reform to sweep over Whitestone, L. I. Half a hundred persons, excursionists and residents of the place, were bathing in the cool waters of the Sound yesterday when the creature appeared among them, and panic-stricken they fled to the shore and thence onward, some to hotels and pavilions, and others who lived near by to their homes, wherein they registered solemn oaths never to bathe in the Sound again in desecration of the Sabbath. Judging from the descriptions of the thing seen, as given by bathers who saw and fled, it would make a rare addition to the collection of any museum of natural history. Had it only been caught the most learned naturalists would cross continents to see it, and if it ever taken the theories of the evolutionists will receive a terrible [illegible] for all who saw are agreed that it was none such as has evoluted.

Miss Cora Jennings, who lives at Whitestone Landing, and who seems to retain the most coherent remembrance of the amalgamical structure of the saurian, or whatever else it was, and whose description tallied for the most part with the stories told by 20 other bathers—who fled at its approach, said last night, in speaking of her experiences:

"I had been in the water about 20 minutes when I made up my mind to swim out to the float. I think that I must have taken about a dozen strokes in the direction of the float when I felt something tugging at the skirt of my bathing suit. At first I thought it had caught on a log that was floating near me. I turned around in the water to look, and what I saw I never will forget to my dying day. I am ashamed for my sex that I did not incontinently faint, for there, holding to my skirts, was a monster's head, armed with spiky teeth and long, prickly red tongues, that shot in and out like dancing flames. The head was covered with blue-green hair, stubbly and slimy. Two bulging eyes of deep sea green were fixed upon me in a fascinating stare. I screamed at the top of my lungs and tore wildly at my skirt, and by the time I had freed it from the monster's grasp I had swallowed several buckets full of water. Then catching my breath, I swam for dear life for the shore. Looking at frequent intervals down through the water it seemed to me that the creature was following me, walking slowly along the bottom on its six legs. The body I could see—though it might have been magnified or distorted by the commotion in the water beneath me—was like that of neither a fish nor a snake, yet it was fitted with fins and was sinuous as that of a serpent. The legs, which seemed to work in union, appeared to be without either knee joints or [illegible] that of a crab endeavoring to walk straight. Just before I reached shore I ran off in the direction of a number of bathers, who fled up the shore never stopping in their flight until they had reached some hotel, pavilion or other place of refuge."

Mr. Walter French of this city, who is spending the summer at Whitestone, and who was swimming near Miss Jennings when she saw the monster, said last night that her description of it accorded in almost every detail with what he himself had seen. The only thing he was not sure about was the legs; he did not know whether there were six or 16.

"I saw," he said, "that it had sufficient means of locomotion and propulsion, and did not wait to investigate into any minute details. It was the decerest thing I ever looked at. The fact that others saw it and were overcome by fright at its appearance had no influence with me in this matter. I am going to decorate all my garments with the blue ribbon, and put a fresh [illegible] on every [illegible]."

Old Capt. Reilly, who has kept a small flotilla of boats at Whitestone Landing for over 30 years, remarked last night when the story of the strange sea monster was told to him:

"I was ever know that their biggest kind of horseshoe crabs bread right off Throggs Neck, an' in my day I have seen some dern near three feet long. If you'll go up into the loft o' that boat house o' mine you'll see there a shell of a horseshoe 2 feet 11 inches from stem to stern."—(Providence Journal.

A Remarkable Defense of the Chinese.

A cycle of Cathay has just elapsed since the doors of China were violently forced opened by a "Christian" nation to admit the traffic in opium, the importation of which, up to that time had, by Chinese law, been a capital offense. For the Opium war, which was forced upon her, a heavy indemnity was exacted from China, and the cession of Hong-kong to Great Britain. The feeling of resentment aroused by these aggressions was shown in several minor insurrections, but culminated in the great Tai-ping rebellion, begun in 1850, which all but shook the dynasty from its throne, and only failed because its forces, corrupted by riotous living, gave up their high purpose of founding a new dynasty, and degenerated into a horde of robbers.

The affair of the Arrow in 1856, in which a Chinese officer arrested some pirates from a boat that had formerly had a license to fly the British flag, but whose license had expired, was made the excuse for another Anglo-French war of 1857-1860. This war, marked by the desecration of temples and graves and the wanton destruction by the allied [illegible] of another [illegible] palace, ended by the wringing of another heavy indemnity from China and the cession of more territory to both the allies, while Russia seized the opportunity to possess herself of the immense Amoor provinces. This war was also followed by widespread insurrections, particularly those in Kan-suh and Yun-nan. These were followed by the French seizure of Tonquin in 1867, the Japanese invasion of Formosa in 1868, English advances from Burmah, and the Russian occupation of Ili and eastern Turkestan, which last was so unjust and brazen a piece of aggression that Russia herself acknowledged it, and withdrew, relinquishing all claims to the territory by the treaty of 1881.

The harshness and arrogance of the foreigners in their dealings with the Chinese in local affairs precipitated frequent trouble. The great massacre at Tien-tsin in 1870 was brought on by the arbitrary and unnecessary refusal of the French consul to allow the Chinese magistrate to inspect the Catholic orphan asylum, with a view to discovering the cause of an epidemic that was ravaging therein. This was followed by the murder of Mr. Margary, the guide of the English expedition through Yunnan, and the exaction by England of an indemnity of $250,000 for this single life. Then the French advance into Cochin China resulted in the disastrous war of the Black Flags and the treacherous bombardment and destruction of the Chinese fleet by the French admiral Courbet, in the river Min. Having requested and been allowed to pass the forts and occupy the Chinese naval anchorage, on the plea that it was unsafe for his fleet outside, he drew up alongside the Chinese fleet and, absolutely without warning, opened fire [illegible] and [illegible] water.

The Japanese war had even less reason to justify it. China had scrupulously complied with the terms of her treaty. But Japan with a serious rebellion on her hands, needed something to divert the attention of her people from the troubles at home, and an opportunity to try out her new army. The results are known to all. China lost her ancient dependency of Korea, Japan received Formosa and an indemnity that repaid her, four times over, her outlay on account of the war. Russia with a diplomacy comparable only to that of a highwayman, secured Manchuria, Port Arthur and the Liau-tung peninsula, while England accepted the "lease" of Wei-hai-wei. Spheres of influence were then claimed by Great Britain, France, Russia and Japan, and finally Germany seized Kiao-chau and claimed for her sphere the province of Shan-tung.

Heretofore the claims and aggressions of the powers had been confined to outlying territories, but this last seizure, a piece of piracy that stands absolutely unequalled, was upon the sacred soil of one of the original 18 provinces of the empire. The effect upon the Chinese people of the seizure of this part of Shan-tung, the home of Chinese civilization, the birthplace of their greatest sages and warriors, can be compared only to the effect that a seizure of Bunker Hill and Boston would have upon us. In the seized territory the Chinese villagers were driven out, some from homes that had been in their families for over 2,000 years, and received no compensation in return. In laying out the proposed railroad through Shan-tung the engineers became offended at protesting villagers, and, bringing up an armed force, completely exterminated two villages as a "warning" to others.

The present outbreak of the Boxers, which began with the murder of Dr. Brooks on January 20, was precipitated by a German engineer who brutally killed a boy by knocking him over the head with the handle of his riding-whip. Nor is it strange that Chinese feeling should have been directed against the missionary in whose home this engineer stayed that night without even mentioning the reason he sought shelter. Priests who came to teach religion have stayed to usurp the functions of local magistrates. But it is useless to multiply incidents, for it is an unbroken tale of coercion and bad faith, of ports forced open at the cannon's mouth, of exorbitant indemnities for the most insignificant claims, of rich concessions wrung from an unwilling government by distress of the total disregard of Chinese sentiment, and the brutal outrage of Chinese feeling, of the utter ignoring of private rights and international comity.

In addition to this the sensational papers of Tien-tsin and Shang-hai have for the past two years discussed little else but the coming "partition" and the probable "division" of the empire, until the natives have become thoroughly alarmed. No wonder the people have come to look with suspicion or hatred upon all foreigners and are filled with [illegible] that has so failed to preserve the honor and integrity of their empire.

Dynasties have lasted in China only as long as they have protected the people in their rights, and the present uprising is intent on either relieving the throne from foreign coercion or on establishing [illegible].

Foreigners, as usual, have shown a disregard for established customs and laws that they would not dare display in any other capital of the world. Guards sent to protect the legations have [illegible] Tahlus [illegible] where Chinamen themselves are not allowed to go, creating disturbances and alarming the superstitious by the reckless discharge of firearms from the city wall, while their reported attempt to enter the Forbidden City, those sacred precincts reserved exclusively for the Son of Heaven, could not fail to incense the people and gain recruits for the rebels.

The bombardment of the Ta-ku forts was worse than a mistake; it was a criminal blunder. They could have been taken as easily as they were, whenever the necessity arose. The Chinese army would probably have prided itself on its protection of the foreigners had the foreign forces shown their intention to rely on that protection, but the action at Ta-ku threw the entire Chinese army into the arms of the Boxers, and left the foreign colony in Peking at the mercy of the mobs. They who have sowed the wind are reaping the whirlwind, and the crimes and outrages of a cycle of dishonor have been wiped out in one of those blind outbreaks of human rage, the final protest of races against cumulating encroachments on their rights.—(Guy Morrison Walker, in Leslie's Weekly.

The Appalling Risks of Railroads.

Young men who contemplate the life of a railroad man should read the appalling statistics of accidents presented in the annual report of the interstate commerce commission. They show that out of every 420 employes on the railroads of the United States last year one was killed, and out of every 27 one was injured. The trainmen and men working on the engines suffered a loss of one killed out of every 155 employed, and one injured out of every dozen in the service. Over 50,000 casualties occurred, and the long list of dead aggregates more than 7,000. The list of dead and wounded far exceeds that of the American army in the war with Spain, including our protracted campaign in the Philippines. It almost equals that of the British army in the South African war. It is fair to add that [illegible] of the [illegible] a tenth of those injured are classed as "trespassers" who had no business to ride, and who were attempting to steal their transportation. In this [illegible] list of casualties tramps figure for the most part, with an occasional unfortunate "foreigner" whose circumstances really compelled him to steal a ride. The traveling public will be glad to know that of the millions of passengers carried, only 208 were killed, as against 221 the preceding year, and 3,442 injured, as against a little less than 3,000 during the preceding 12 months. It would seem as if the constantly-increasing use of automatic couplers, automatic safety signals, and other similar devices would largely reduce the casualties on American railroads, but until grade crossings are more generally abolished the list will continue most formidable.—(Leslie's Weekly.

THE POOR GIRL AT COLLEGE.

Enumerating upward of 50 methods by which a girl can work her way through college, a Cornell graduate writes in the August Ladies' Home Journal: "A college education is possible for any one who is determined to have it. It may happen that the prospective student is obliged to stay at home and work several years before entering, but intensified desire brings compensation. It is not advisable, however, to defer entering until every [illegible] necessary for a four years' course has been earned. Many girls, perhaps, give up the idea of going at all because they cannot go soon after leaving the high school, but nowadays it is not unusual to find in attendance at universities, open during the summer quarter, teachers, well along in the 50s, who in their youth were denied a college education."

A Matter of View.

[illegible] speech bristled with legal points?"

"Well, I'm on the other side; and, according to my view, it bristled with illegal points."—(Chicago Record.

BESIEGED BY LIONS.

A Sick Hunter's Experience in Central Africa.

Lion hunting is dangerous enough when the hunter's health and strength are of the best. But an inveterate sportsman does not regard consequences, and the author of "Sport in East Central Africa" gives an account of the foolhardy adventure which he seems to have enjoyed. He was ill with fever in a little settlement of blacks, but since lions were in the neighborhood he must needs insist upon having the carcass of a boar placed as bait not far from his hut; and, although his legs were too weak to allow him to walk a dozen steps, he had himself propped against the door jamb, and laid his double-barreled rifle across his knees.

It was nearly 1 o'clock, he says, when the lions gave notice of their whereabouts. I heard the heavy grunting sighs of three or four of them as they moved about in the scrub 200 yards away. Then followed a series of rushes, as they leaped down the bank of the creek and lapped noisily at the water. Next came a terrified voice from a neighboring hut.

"White man, we are going," it said, and the "boys" rushed pell-mell from their shelter, some passing for a grove of trees.

Scarcely had the first of them got well outside the huts, before it silenced as if a lion were right among them, as, with deep, savage grunts, it dashed past my hut, hounding through the scrub in close pursuit.

Suddenly a yell rang out from the darkness, and I was convinced that one of my blacks was being devoured; but I was too weak to stand, and was powerless to act.

After some farther noise and confusion I heard a lion treading over the dead leaves near by. Then came a prolonged mutter sound, half-roar, half-moan, uttered in a deep voice, which even under the circumstances I recognized as profoundly musical. Then there was a heavy but silent footfall as the beast walked to the back of my hut, and thrusting his nose amongst the thatched grass, sniffed loudly, till I could see the lighter stalks stirring with his breath and hear the rustling when he endeavored to insert a paw between the interstices of the wattles.

Each instant I expected the whole structure to collapse, but luckily the beast failed to take a mean advantage, which would have secured my destruction. I should have fired, had I not been afraid of setting fire to the hut.

At length the brutes cleared out, uttering deep growls. They had destroyed one hut and pretty much ruined two more, not to speak of smashing the hut next to mine, which contained all my stores. I could hear them there, making a terrific noise, snuffing, grunting and snarling, breaking sticks and clanking metal, while every now and then one would leap down the bank into the water and then come tearing back, breathing heavily and growling low. Yet not a whisker hair did one of them show in the firelight in front of me.

The excitement did me good. The next morning I was up and about in pajamas and an ulster. Not one of the boys had been injured, although one had had a marvelous escape. The lions were close upon him as he reached a tree. He sprang at a branch, and in his terror seized the leg of another black who had clambered up before him. Fearing lest he, too, should fall into the lion's maw, the other fellow kicked his leg clear, so that the unfortunate fugitive fell to the ground, uttering the yell I had heard.

Why the nearest lion did not seize him I can not say. The boy explained that it merely growled as he scrambled to his feet and climbed up another tree as fast as his black legs could shin.

[illegible] is very well said. For if you did not feel like [illegible] you should have to begin [illegible] again, with an [illegible] hand."

SPYING ON GHOSTS.

A Man Who Once Played the Role of "Peeping Tom" Never Repeated the Act.

"There is a neglected house on Mount Auburn street, Cambridge, Mass., opposite Mount Auburn cemetery, that without doubt is indebted for much of its ill-repute in the [illegible] writes Samuel S. Kingdon, of "The Haunted Houses of New England," in the August Ladies' Home Journal. "It was long known as a haunted house, and avoided as such by the superstitious. Its sole earthly tenant frequently threw out mysterious hints [illegible] terialized spirits who favored him with messages from the other world. He took so much pleasure in their society that he was not disposed to cultivate the acquaintance of earthly visitors, and few cared to cross his threshold, for he was not averse to telling them they would not be acceptable to his relatives. There is one man who is confirmed in the belief that he, at least, was not wanted. One dark and stormy night he sought shelter on the piazza of the house, and hearing noises within he tried to discover whence they proceeded by peering through a broken pane of glass. The room was dimly lighted, and he says he saw Mr. Hyde in close communication with two sheeted figures. At the same instant the intruder was blinded by a flash of lightning followed by a crash of thunder and thrown into the middle of the street. He never repeated the experiment of eavesdropping on ghosts."

STICK TO SIMPLE FOOD.

The American Business Man's Pace Demands Easily Digested Dishes.

"There was in the old days far less wear and tear upon the nerves; and, under such conditions, digestion was more completely performed," writes Mrs. S. T. Rorer of "Why I am Opposed to Pies," in the August Ladies' Home Journal. "The mothers of today must look more carefully to the building of their bodies and brains that their mothers and grandmothers did. Indeed, at the pace at which we Americans are going we use our brains to full speed-ahead all the time. What [illegible] can build brain and brawn on pies, layer cakes of preserves, on any other mass of material which from its very complexity requires labor and time for digestion, drawing the blood from the brain to the stomach during its working hours? Or serve those who eat their complex foods carelessly and hastily, and you will see at a glance the conditions that necessitate a complete rest every now and then, or an early nervous breakdown.

"In my close observation in the last 20 years I find very few people in our common struggle for existence who can pay any length of time [illegible] [illegible] of complex foods. At 40 or 50 a man may perhaps have accumulated wealth, but not health; and of what earthly use is the first without the second? Many persons in the generation gone before have eaten pies at least once a day, but they have not had meat three times a day, nor have they rushed at our pace. They [illegible] time to the digestion of the pie. People who recommend these rich foods rarely know anything of their complex conditions, and still less of the complexity of digestion."

An Outrageous Copyright Law.

The entire copyright law needs revision in the interests of justice, consistency, and honest business principles. That section of the law which requires that a publisher shall obtain the consent of the copyright-owner "in writing, signed in the presence of two or more witnesses," is absurd and wholly impracticable. The exigencies of the newspaper business especially make it impossible to comply with such a requirement, and it is the technical violation of this provision which has been the occasion of heavy damage suits against newspapers and great loss and embarrassment to honorable publishers. Penalties should be abolished entirely and the aggrieved persons allowed only such damages as they can actually prove. The present unjust and [illegible] law is a [illegible] hanging over the whole newspaper business, making it possible for vicious and irresponsible persons to squeeze the life out of reputable publishers actually guilty of no wrong-doing whatever.—(Leslie's Weekly.

Beware of Too Liberal Use of Salt.

Salt draws the juices from beef in corning, toughens the fibre, makes it very indigestible and less nutritious. On cucumbers it draws out the water, toughens the fibre and renders them very indigestible. Salt acts in exactly the same way on fish as on meat. There are two ways of considering these changes. I would hardly say that salt destroys the food value, although it robs the flesh of part of its food value by making it less digestible.—Mrs. S. T. Rorer in the August Ladies' Home Journal.

A Safe Investment

Over 300 per cent. profit in one year.

EXAMPLE: $62.50 will make the first payment on a 50 foot front lot in

DIXON PARK PLACE

Fronting on the car line.

Capital invested
7 per cent. interest for one year on deferred payment, $187.50	$62.50
	13.12
Total investment	$75.62

It is our honest opinion based on an experience of five years in buying and selling Colorado Springs suburban property, that choice lots on the car line in Dixon Park Place will be selling within one year for $500 for 50-feet frontage.

Why? Because this time next year, in our opinion the city will have purchased the proposed Park site adjoining this property, the closing of the proposition being simply a matter of detail. Independent of this point however, the property will be worth $10 per front foot within a year for the following reasons:

- Mountain Scenery Unsurpassed in the world.
- Life-Giving Air loaded with the perfume of spruce and pine.
- Pure Mountain Water for domestic purposes.
- Fifteen Minute Electric Car Service at half price to residents of Dixon Park Place.
- Broadmoor Casino Concerts afternoons and evenings.

We advise our clients and others who desire a safe and profitable real estate investment to PURCHASE NOW while the choice lots may be secured.
